

STYLE | FASHION | SOCIAL

Paper City

DALLAS DECEMBER 2006

Who's Pulling Your Holiday
Strings?

Kristen Radakovich at Linus

Kacky Pritchard and Lisa Barnes at Kacky & Carl

Kacky & Carl and Linus

2722 Routh St. (Kacky & Carl), 214.295.4486

kackyandcarl.com

2724 Routh St. (Linus), 214.965.0180

linuslounge.com

Keys to the Door: Kacky & Carl owners Kacky Pritchard and Lisa Barnes; Linus owner Kristen Radakovich.

House of Style: One house, two awnings and three chic women: At 2722 Routh, SMU alums (and Oklahoma girls) Kacky Pritchard and Lisa Barnes have opened Kacky & Carl, a clothing, antiques, home furnishings and baby store. In fact, from the antique display tables to the glam chandeliers, almost everything in the store is for sale. The two met while working at a longtime fashion showroom at the World Trade Center, and now they've put their heads together to assemble a collection of feminine clothes from designers such as Karen Zambos, Twinkle by Wenlan, Bilingual, Kitson jeans and Laranja Lima, all exclusive to them in Dallas. They also carry gorgeous vintage Louis Vuitton luggage, cooable Baby Bean baby clothes and found Knoll chairs, plus jewelry from CK Designs, Beth's Addiction and Angel Court. Pritchard's signature handmade aprons are also here: the same aprons that landed her a coveted internship at Kate Spade. Now, pass under the second awning out front and tiptoe upstairs to Linus, a mod, European-style shoe boutique filled with exclusive, exquisitely detailed lines such as Barbara Bui, Rupert Sanderson, Ruthie Davis and Roberta di Camerino. (P.S. No one else in town is selling any of these shoes.) The idea behind Linus came from living in London for five years, where Radakovich fell in love with edgy European shoes, as well as the more laid-back approach to selling them (the town house, the lounge-y vibe). We love the titanium, fiberglass and stainless-steel accents on Davis' shoes and the red-patent platform pumps from Bui. One catch: Until March, Linus is open only by appointment, so call Radakovich to view the amazing collection.